 - (a) that within the 5-year period beginning with the day after the day on which the trade mark is registered –
 - (i) the registered trade mark has not been put to genuine use in Jersey (by the registered proprietor or with the registered proprietor's consent) in relation to the goods or services for which the trade mark is registered; and
 - (ii) there are no proper reasons for the non-use;
 - (b) that the use in Jersey of the registered trade mark (by the registered proprietor or with the registered proprietor's consent) has been suspended for an uninterrupted period of 5 years, and there are no proper reasons for the non-use;
 - (c) that, as a result of acts or inactivity of the registered proprietor, the registered trade mark has become the common name in the trade for any of the goods or services for which the trade mark is registered;
 - (d) that, as a result of the use of the registered trade mark (by the registered proprietor or with the registered proprietor's consent) in relation to the goods or services for which the trade mark is registered, the registered trade mark is liable to mislead the public, particularly as to the nature, quality or geographical origin of those goods or services.
- (2) The registration of a trade mark must not be revoked on the grounds in sub-paragraph (a) or (b) of paragraph (1) if use of the registered trade mark in accordance with that sub-paragraph begins or resumes –
 - (a) after the end of the 5-year period mentioned in that sub-paragraph; and
 - (b) before an application for revocation is made.
- (3) But any use that begins or resumes within the 3-month period ending with the date the application for revocation is made must be disregarded unless preparations for beginning or resuming that use began before the registered proprietor became aware that the application for revocation might be made.
- (4) If grounds for revocation exist in relation to only some of the goods or services for which the trade mark is registered, revocation must relate to those goods or services only.
- (5) If the registration of a trade mark is revoked to any extent, the rights of the registered proprietor cease to have effect to that extent from –
 - (a) the date the application for revocation is made; or

53 Application for declaration of invalidity

- (1) Unless paragraph (2) applies, any person may apply for a declaration that the registration of a trade mark is invalid.

- (3) An application for a declaration of invalidity may be made to the Registrar or the Court, but if Court proceedings relating to the registered trade mark are pending, the application must be made to the Court.
- (4) If Court proceedings begin after an application for a declaration of invalidity is made to the Registrar, the Registrar may refer the application to the Court at any stage of the proceedings before the Registrar.
- (5) The Registrar may apply to the Court for a declaration that the registration of a trade mark is invalid if the application for registration of the trade mark was made in bad faith.
- (6) An application for a declaration of invalidity may be filed on the basis of 1 or more earlier trade marks or earlier rights.
- (7) If an application for a declaration of invalidity is filed on the basis of more than 1 earlier trade mark or earlier right, all the rights must belong to the same proprietor.

54 Declaration of invalidity

- (1) If grounds of invalidity exist in relation to only some of the goods or services for which a trade mark is registered, the trade mark must be declared invalid as regards those goods or services only.
- (2) If the registration of a trade mark is declared invalid to any extent, the registration is taken, to that extent, never to have been made.
- (3) Paragraph (2) does not affect transactions past and closed.

55 Grounds for invalidity of registration

- (1) The registration of a trade mark may be declared invalid on the ground that the trade mark was registered in breach of –
 - (a) Article 32 (absolute grounds for refusal – general), 33 (absolute grounds for refusal – prohibitions), 38 (specially protected emblems), 39 (national emblems of Convention countries) or 40 (emblems of international organisations); or
 - (b) any provision mentioned in those Articles.
- (2) If the trade mark was registered in breach of Article 32(1)(b), (c) or (d) (absolute grounds for refusal – general), the registration must not be declared invalid if, as a result of the use that has been made of the trade mark, it has after registration acquired a distinctive character in relation to the goods or services for which it is registered.
- (3) Subject to Article 56 (refusal of application for declaration of invalidity – earlier trade mark), the registration of a trade mark may be declared invalid on the ground that –
 - (a) there is an earlier trade mark to which Article 34 applies (relative grounds for refusal – identical or similar to earlier trade mark); or
 - (b) there is an earlier right in relation to the registered trade mark.

- (4) But paragraph (3) does not apply if the proprietor of the earlier trade mark or earlier right has consented to the registration.
- (5) The registration of a trade mark may be declared invalid on the ground that the trade mark was registered in breach of Article 36 (relative grounds for refusal – application without proprietor’s consent).

56 Refusal of application for declaration of invalidity – earlier trade mark

- (1) The registration of a trade mark must not be declared invalid on the ground that there is an earlier trade mark unless –
 - (a) the earlier trade mark was registered within the 5-year period ending with the date the application for a declaration of invalidity is made;
 - (b) the earlier trade mark was not registered before that date; or
 - (c) the use conditions are met.
- (2) Paragraph (1) does not apply if the earlier trade mark is a trade mark within Article 5(1)(d) (meaning of earlier trade mark).
- (3) The use conditions are met if –
 - (a) the earlier trade mark has been put to genuine use in Jersey (by the registered proprietor or with the registered proprietor’s consent) in relation to the goods or services for which the earlier trade mark is registered –
 - (i) within the 5-year period ending with the date the application for a declaration of invalidity is made; and
 - (ii) within the 5-year period ending with the date of application for registration of the later trade mark (or any date of priority for that application) if, at that date, the 5-year period within which the earlier trade mark should have been put to genuine use as provided in Article 52(1)(a) (grounds for revoking registration) has ended; or
 - (b) the earlier trade mark has not been put to genuine use in Jersey in accordance with sub-paragraph (a), but there are proper reasons for the non-use.
- (4) If an earlier trade mark meets the use conditions in relation to only some of the goods or services for which it is registered, it is taken for the purposes of this Article to be registered only in relation to those goods or services.
- (5) An application for a declaration of invalidity on the basis of an earlier trade mark must be refused if it would have been refused, for any of the reasons in paragraph (6), had the application for the declaration been made on the date of application for registration of the later trade mark (or any date of priority for that application).
- (6) The reasons are that –
 - (a) on that date, the earlier trade mark was liable to be declared invalid on the basis of Article 32(1)(b), (c) or (d) (absolute grounds for refusal – general), and it had not yet acquired a distinctive character as a result of the use made of it;
 - (b) the application for a declaration of invalidity is based on Article 34(3) or (4) (relative grounds for refusal – identical or similar to earlier trade mark) and on that date the earlier trade mark had not yet become sufficiently distinctive to support a finding of likelihood of confusion within the meaning of that Article;

- (c) the application for a declaration of invalidity is based on Article 34(6) (relative grounds for refusal – identical or similar to earlier trade mark) and on that date the earlier trade mark had not yet acquired a reputation in Jersey.

57 Effect of acquiescence

- (1) This Article applies if the proprietor of an earlier trade mark or earlier right has acquiesced for a continuous period of 5 years in the use in Jersey of a registered trade mark (“later trade mark”), being aware of that use.
- (2) The proprietor of the earlier trade mark or earlier right ceases to be entitled, on the basis of the earlier trade mark or earlier right –
 - (a) to apply for a declaration that the registration of the later trade mark is invalid; or
 - (b) to oppose the use of the later trade mark in relation to the goods or services for which it has been used.
- (3) The proprietor of the later trade mark is not entitled to oppose the use of the earlier trade mark or the exploitation of the earlier right, even though the earlier trade mark or earlier right may no longer be invoked against the later trade mark.
- (4) Paragraph (2) does not apply if the application for registration of the later trade mark was made in bad faith.

- (c) for an international registration that extends to Jersey, a change in the ownership of the international registration.

- (2) If the Court gives a certificate under paragraph (1), the registered proprietor is entitled to the costs of any subsequent Court proceedings on the indemnity basis (unless the Court directs otherwise) if, in the subsequent proceedings –
 - (a) the validity of the registration is again questioned; and
 - (b) the proprietor obtains a final order or judgment that the trade mark is validly registered.
- (3) Paragraph (2) does not apply to the costs of an appeal in any subsequent Court proceedings.
- (4) In this Article, “indemnity basis” has the same meaning as in Part 12 of the Royal Court Rules 2004.
